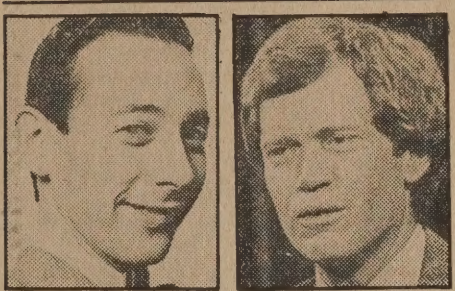
JAN 22 1987 C 1

PEOP

Democrat and Ch

NEWSMAKERS



Pee Wee Herman, left, David Letterman

It's interesting how dull they are

J.D. "Dull" Stewart yesterday announced his annual list of the 10 dullest Americans — and the dullest Rochesterians — of 1986. Stewart is the self-proclaimed chairman of the "bored" of the International Dull Folks, Unlimited. His national dull awards go to talk show host David Letterman ("in dulldom, there is no better man"), Sam Walton, founder and owner of the Wal-Mart store chain, advice columnist Ann Landers ("she continually panders and often meanders"), TV anchorman Tom Brokaw, comic Pee-Wee Herman ("his costumes would scare away vermin"), television producer Aaron Spelling, comic strip character Beetle Bailey, Joan Rivers, Donald Regan and Robin Leach, host of television's Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous. Earning local dull honors are the so-called Top-Free Seven — the defendants in last year's topless demonstration in Cobb's Hill Park: Deborah Seymour, Kathleen Reilly, Elise Jo Tooley, Lynn Zicari, Nikki Craft, Mary Lou Schloss and Ramona Santorelli. Other local dull winners were Times-Union movie critic Steve Dollar and sportswriter Rick Woodson, TV-13 weatherman Kevin Williams, WHAM traffic reporter Glenn Garman, Greece politician Don Riley, Channel 21 general manager William Pearce, and frequent letters-to-the-editor writer John Starkweather ("Rochester's foremost reactionary").

For

CBS
to cu

By Mike
Gannett New

Imagine
tually co
game.

That a
at least

"We pr
cover foo
tive prod
going to other thi

That m
dential c
It even m

"We lit
there wer
said of p
macho th

Now th
approach
season's eryone a